FREE FIGHT.

That is Reply to the Ultimatum of the Powers.

Note To be Delivered to Diplomats Today, Time Limit Expiring.

Report That Settlement of Cretan Trouble Is Not Far Distant.

Greek Commander In Crete Ordered to Hold his Position.

London March 8. The Daily News claims to be able to announce that there is every hope of a speedy satisfactory and peaceful solution of the Cretan trouble. It adds that Greece's reply to the note of the powers will by stating her reason leave the door open for further negotiations, though she will not accept the conditions laid down by the powers.

A Constantinople dispatch says it is understood Greece is willing to withdraw her fleet from Cretan waters but says it is said that the troops remain to be used to assist in organizing the new government.

Stop in Behalf of Turks

Canea, March 6. Col Vassos is intimated to the admirals of the foreign fleets that he will secure the life of all the Mussulmans captured by the insurgents on condition that the Turkish officers abandon their arms and take no further part in the fighting.

The foreign admirals here think it is believed have taken another step in behalf of the Turks and feel has thereby been added to the indignation of the Cretans.

Orders have been issued for two British warships, a Russian ship and a French ship to land 500 men to escort Sir Alfred Biliotti, the British consul here, to Kandanos, whither he proceeds with the ostensible object of rescuing the besieged Moslems.

It is thought the real object is to compel the insurgents to raise the siege of Kandanos if necessary.

Kandanos is in the mountains 7 miles inland. It is reliably stated that there are 3,000 Mussulmans in the town and that the situation is very grave. The insurgent lagoons are throwing the fort works which the Turks are defending.

The 500 foreign sailors and marines have landed and will start at once for the town.

Powers Can't Agree

Berlin, March 7. The powers are not no wise agreed among themselves as to the precise terms of the autonomous administration of the affairs of Crete now they are in concord in that of allowing Turkey shall be allowed to provoke war in the Balkan peninsula by massing troops on the frontier. Under the pretext of self-defense the Porte is expected military plan which no Europe government would venture upon without the backing of a plethoric war chest but the Porte's capacity for military operations was manifested in the case of the Turco-Russian war in 1876-7 when as now the bankruptcy of the Ottoman empire was relied on as a greater factor in the defeat of Turkey than the guns of the Russians.

As things turned out though Turkey was defeated she found ample funds to conduct a creditable campaign. When Von Der Goltz Pasha the German general who was lent to the Sultan and organized the present Turkish army left the service of the Porte, it was understood he was thoroughly disgusted with the way things were going and the severance of his relations with the Turkish military department was approved by the German emperor. The Sultan has paid a high tribute to him.

He recently thought him to resume his position, assuring him he would be the virtual commander-in-chief of the Ottoman army. The German Pasha declined to return and in reply to the Sultan's invitation he has sent a plan of operation to be put into force upon the Greek frontier based upon his profound knowledge of the conditions under which a campaign against Greece must be conducted. As Von der Goltz Pasha when he served his connection with the Turkish military administration occupied the position of a lord chief of the general staff of the Turkish army and was a member of the council of the Turkish ministry of war, it will be seen that his advice had no small influence in the military operations the Porte has undertaken within the last month or two.

German officers who are still serving in the Turkish army are known to be fully capable of carrying Von der Goltz plans into effect and the fact that many important commands on the Thessalian frontier are now in the hands of German officers may thus be accounted for.

Advices from Constantinople based on reliable authority show that Ottoman troops on the frontier of Thessalia are well as on the other Turkish border are almost in readiness to set up the offensive, and it is asserted if the command in chief of the forces Edhem Pasha should receive orders to move he could within a week throw 70,000 well armed men over the Greek frontier, including all batteries of artillery and the squadrons of cavalry.

The headquarters of the Turkish army of occupation of Defence are now at Monastir, Macedonia 100 miles west of Constantinople.

A larger force of troops under command of Osman and Nechad Pashas is now in the front. In addition to the mobilization of the regular troops a second draft of those liable to military duty has been called to arms in several districts near the Greek borders.

The ostensible reason for summoning this reserve is that the ordinary Redifs or reserves which were lately called out have been deficient in numbers. The summoning of any part of the Mustafuz is regarded as ominous of the Sultan's expectation that something of a very serious nature is imminent.

The attitude of Servia and Bulgaria occupies the serious attention of European diplomacy and it is the opinion in official circles here that conference which takes place between King Alexander of Servia and Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, have resulted in an agreement to make a simultaneous attack upon Turkey when the time for such action shall seem opportune.

Roumania is looked upon as having an intention to take an active part in any scheme of rearranging the Balkan boundary that may be put in operation. King Charles of Roumania is a member of the Prussian family of Hohenzollern and may be relied upon to have the support of Germany, and in view of eventualities the Roumanian fort works at Kustenje on the Black Sea defences at Galatz and Braila on the Danube are being strengthened and extended.

Greece's Reply to Powers

London, March 7. A despatch from Athens gives the following summary of the reply to the ultimatum of the powers which Greece will hand to the diplomats to-morrow when the time expires in which a reply can be made. It will recall that Greece in 1866 in deference to the wish of the powers used her influence with the Cretans to induce them to accept the reforms offered by Turkey. It will point to the continued unsettled state of the island as proof of the futility of the measures of reform. With regard to autonomy of the island the reply will state it is for the Cretans to decide whether they will accept it.

It will decline the evacuation of Crete by Greece is impossible because the situation is to restore with Greek troops and warships were sent to the island remains seriously disturbed.

Greece Will Refuse

Canea, March 7. It is believed here that the reply of Greece to the powers will be a refusal to obey and that a bloody struggle is the not remote inevitable unless the powers recede from their position.

It is known that Colonel Vassos, commander of the Greek army of occupation has received instructions from Athens to hold all position in the island now occupied by the Greek troops and to prepare for resistance to the bitter end any attempt on the part of anybody to dislodge him.

The Greek troops received the news of the determination of the Kingdom to resist with cheers. It is French belief that if Greece had not been sure that she would take a retreat for her other own to defend them. Hostilities of the next few days are anxiously waited.

Turkey Agrees

Constantinople, March 7. The diplomats here have received the answer of the Porte to the joint settling of the decrees of the powers regarding autonomy in Crete. The Porte assents to the terms.

English Sympathy for Crete and Greece

London, March 7. A large political meeting was held in Hyde Park today to give vent to the feeling in favor of Greece which generally obtains among the masses of England. Resolutions were adopted in sympathy with the Cretans in their struggle for freedom and congratulating Greece upon her firm resolve to defend the Cretans against the coercion of Greece by the powers.

SENATORIAL CAUCUS.

The Republicans Discussed the Situation Quite Fully.

Are Confident that They will Have Enough Votes to Carry Measures

With Casting Vote of the Vice President--Talked Tariff Somewhat

Washington, March 6. The Republican Senators met in caucus at 2 p.m. and remained in session until 5:30. Senator Allison of Iowa was elected chairman of the caucus to succeed John Sherman resigned, and Senator Wilson, of Washington was elected secretary.

After a discussion of one hour and a half a resolution was adopted authorizing the chairman to appoint committee of seven of which he himself is to be the head. This committee is known as the committee on situation.

In discussion, which largely informal in character, developed the fact that the Republicans are not agreed as to where they stand, nor how they will stand when the membership of the Senate is augmented by the addition of Senators to the extent now seated in the Oregon and Kentucky.

Senator Walcott, chairman of the committee on finance, on behalf of the majority of the committee, reported that it was the purpose to bring the tariff bill to the Senate on Monday, March 15th, and to have it ready for action by the Senate at the earliest practicable date. Senator Morrill, the senior member of the committee, stated that the majority of the committee would be ready to report the bill on that day, but that it would be impossible to have it ready for action by the Senate at that time. Senator Allison, the senior member of the committee, stated that he would be ready to report the bill on that day, but that it would be impossible to have it ready for action by the Senate at that time. Senator Morrill said that he would be ready to report the bill on that day, but that it would be impossible to have it ready for action by the Senate at that time. Senator Allison, the senior member of the committee, stated that he would be ready to report the bill on that day, but that it would be impossible to have it ready for action by the Senate at that time. Senator Morrill said that he would be ready to report the bill on that day, but that it would be impossible to have it ready for action by the Senate at that time.

This judge of the report to the committee of the Senate Senator Perkins said there could be no doubt the Republicans would have a majority of the Senate to vote with the caucus. Senator Wolcott said that he would be satisfied if the Senate would pass the bill as it came from the House. Senator Perkins said that he would be satisfied if the Senate would pass the bill as it came from the House. Senator Wolcott said that he would be satisfied if the Senate would pass the bill as it came from the House. Senator Perkins said that he would be satisfied if the Senate would pass the bill as it came from the House.

The question of the Senate was then discussed. Senators Hanna and Foraker of Ohio were present and participated in the discussion. Only senators were present. Neither addresses nor the caucus.

Outlook for Work in Senate

Washington, March 7. The Senate will not meet continuously during the week. Special sessions between now and the call of the extraordinary session of Congress March 15 will be devoted to the consideration of nominations and nothing else unless the pending treaty of arbitration between the United States and Great Britain which is reported from the Committee on Foreign Relations.

It is not expected that President McKinley will be able to send in a batch every day.

The cabinet has been confirmed and it is probable that the Senate after the meeting tomorrow will adjourn until Wednesday. The Committee on Foreign Relations will meet Wednesday. Senator Davis ranking member, by a resolve of the Senate has been made acting chairman and there is no reason why his committee should not go ahead with the treaty of arbitration between the United States and Great Britain and the Alaskan boundary treaty, the only business before it.

If the committee is able to agree upon any treaty and amendments to any are considered to be necessary the treaty will probably be reported and some of the time of the Senate be consumed in discussion of that convention. The retirement of Senators Sherman and Cameron leaves the committee just as it stood in the last Congress, the Senators being opposed to each other on the vote on reporting the treaty.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Cabinet Members, Save Mr. Gage, Sworn In There.

Call of Justices of Supreme Court Made Unusual Occurrence Possible.

President McKinley in Good Health and Spirits--Interesting Notes.

Washington, March 6. The Upper Chamber Club of Cleveland were received in the state room at early before noon by the President. Congressman Burton accompanied them.

Gen Bushnell and his staff accompanied by Mrs Bushnell and a number of ladies called at noon and were most cordially received by the President in the blue room. Other callers this afternoon were Gen Horace Porter, who received many congratulations upon the success of the parade, Congressman Hopkins of Illinois, Senator Mills of Texas, and Senator Proctor of Vermont.

The Kinsman Club of Minneapolis was received in the east room at half past twelve.

The President and Mrs McKinley were joined at lunch by their relatives from Canton, most of whom have for some time past been visiting here.

J. H. Brigham of Ohio, who is said to be in line for the position of Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, had an interview with Secretary Porter today.

It is reported that ex Congressman Bellamy Storer of Cincinnati may be appointed first assistant Secretary of State, vice the name of Prof Patrick of Vermont, formerly assistant of the State Department and afterwards minister to Vienna, which had been presented by Senator Proctor, has been withdrawn on account of Partridge's health. It is understood, Mr Storer wishes to go abroad.

The swearing in of all the members of the cabinet except Mr Gage in the White House today was at least a departure from usual routine. Heretofore it has been the custom to administer the oath to the new secretaries at their respective departments generally by the chief justice, but the coincident presence of the members of the court and of the cabinet at the executive mansion made the usual course impossible in this instance.

The members of the cabinet save Mr Gage met in the cabinet room at 12:00 for consultation with the President. They were thus engaged when the Justices of the chief justice and associate justices accompanied by Postmaster Dives, Col McKenzie and Marshal Wright in the blue room were informed by President McKinley promptly at the appointed hour and received the congratulations of the distinguished visitors. Mr McKinley replied greatly pleased at the general convergence of opinion in the cabinet, where he would like to preside with them.

The justices were taken into the cabinet room, the President and Mrs McKinley joining them. The oath was administered in the following order: To Secretary Sherman by Chief Justice Fuller; to Secretary Alger by Justice Brown; to Attorney General McKenna by Chief Justice Fuller; to Secretary Long by Justice Gray; to Postmaster General Gary by Chief Justice Fuller; to Secretary Bliss by Justice Peckham; to Secretary Wilson by Chief Justice Fuller.

The Bibles were used in the ceremonial and their condition indicating constant use suggested to some of those present that the occupants of the White House would probably welcome a new copy of the Scriptures. Each official in taking the oath of office and Secretary Sherman immediately after the duties of the office of the committee which Mr Aldrich was authorized to appoint. Mr Aldrich said that he would do so. Senator Morrill said that he would be glad to have the committee report on the tariff bill on Monday, March 15th.

The President's cabinet was in session for the first time today. The President was present and participated in the discussion. The cabinet was composed of the new secretaries and the President. The President said that he would be glad to have the committee report on the tariff bill on Monday, March 15th.

Nearly all the receiving during the morning took place in the state room. The President's office. When a delegation arrived its members would be conducted in the reception hall and kept there until the President was able to receive them.

Private Secretary Porter's messenger would throw open the door of the portrait room and announce: "All who want to pay their respects to the President, this way." This was the signal for a concerted movement but he would make every one feel at home and pass through to the President's office in an orderly manner.

The President was in the best of humor and in the enjoyment of robust health and vigor. He served him well and seemed many people who saw him and happy.

Col Fred Grant, of New York, moved in about the office of a young during the afternoon. Col Grant is said to be a candidate for the office of assistant secretary of war. A son of another former President also paid his respects. It was Russell Harrison, of Terre Haute, Ind.

Vice President Hobart dropped in a short time and Mrs J. Ralph Foster president of the Woman's Republican League called to congratulate the President. Lady accompanied the members of the National Protection Association headed by Major R. P. Long of Pittsburg, the founder of the organization. Senators Carter and Mantle brought several Montana ladies. Senator Shoup led an Idaho delegation. Jerome Corey, of Philadelphia, said a word in the President's ear in behalf of Col John A. Wildersleeve, a Philadelphia patent attorney, who wants to be commissioner of patents.

Shortly after five the President and Secretary Porter went out walking. Many people recognized the new President and he was kept busy doffing his hat. He walked briskly with a swing to his shoulders that carried him along at a good pace.

Tonight the President entertained a number of personal friends at dinner. Most of those present went to the inaugural concert in the pension building later on.

All a Fake

Chicago, March 7. A special from the City of Mexico says: The story telegraphed to the United States that a bitter feeling exists among Mexicans on account of the demand for restoration of the flags captured from American troops in the war of 1847 and that American women are insulted in the streets is a pure fabrication. No demand has been made for the flags, nor has any commission appeared from the United States.

Lewiston, Me., March 7. J. F. Frost, a prominent business man, of the firm of Jordan, Frost & Co., died today after a long illness. He was 63 years old and leaves a wife and five sons. One son, Chas. Frost, of Chicago, was the architect of the Manufactures and Liberal Arts building of the Columbian Exposition.

MUNICIPAL ELECTION, TO-DAY, MARCH 8

FOR MAYOR:

DANIEL A. ROBINSON.

Duty of the Voters.

The importance of the election to-day can hardly be over estimated from a municipal standpoint. If Mayor Beal is elected he will be responsible to no party and no party will be responsible for him. He is a free lance in this contest seeking votes wherever he can find them. His chief reliance will necessarily be upon the floating vote, that is the vote that has no care or thought of city affairs. The number of business men who stand in the Beal column is very limited. It will probably be less this spring than ever before because many a substantial voter has supported him in the past simply on account of the fact that he was on the ticket as the regular Republican candidate. No such reason prevails for supporting him to-day. On the contrary the very reason that has held this support in the past will operate against him in the election to-day. Men who have stood for the party with Mayor Beal as the candidate will certainly not turn against the party to support him as a bolter.

It will thus be seen that the Mayor is conducting a guerilla campaign that is a menace to the Republican party and to the welfare of the city. Confronted by this condition it is the duty of every voter to go to the polls to-day and place his ballot so that it will most effectually count in behalf of good government. The Republicans have a candidate who commands the confidence and respect of business men of all parties. There is not a man in the city who does not know that our municipal affairs will be safely and wisely administered if Dr. Robinson is elected. It is often urged that our representative men should take a personal interest in city affairs and consent to run for office even at a sacrifice to themselves. This was the argument to which Dr. Robinson yielded and now that we have one of our best known citizens in the field where he can be elected to this important position the people should not lose the opportunity. As a citizen and as a Republican Dr. Robinson's record is unassailable. No word of criticism has been heard against his candidacy. Now let the voters do their whole duty to-day and see that he is elected together with a City Government that will ensure a year of peace and prosperity. Vote the straight Republican ticket.

Vote the Straight Ticket.

To the Republicans of Bangor we desire to say that in the election to-day there is but one Republican candidate for Mayor, Dr. D. A. Robinson. He was nominated by a large vote in the only Republican Mayoralty caucus held this spring. That caucus was open to any Republican who desired to be a candidate, but every vote cast, 539 in number, was for Dr. Robinson who not only became the candidate of the party but its unanimous choice.

Who is trying to defeat him?

Mayor Beal.

What is Mayor Beal?

A bolter against the nominee of the party in which he has always advocated that once the nomination was made it was the duty of every Republican to stand by it.

What excuse does he offer?

That certain members of the party have refused to support him in the past.

What has been his answer when urged to take himself out of the way because of this opposition to his candidacy?

That the men who were opposed to him were few in number and that the majority was with him and should rule.

How then can he excuse his action in bolting the regular nominee of a party, the majority of which he holds has always been loyal to him?

He cannot offer any intelligent excuse. He is a bolter because he is determined to rule or ruin.

What has been the effect of his administration of the affairs of the city?

An increased burden of taxation upon the people.

What is the tax rate?

Would it have been still larger had not the Mayor's scheme for the extension of the water works failed by reason of the action of the City Government?

Undoubtedly. The Mayor tried to make the people believe that the city could expend $160,000 to $220,000 in addition to the ordinary expenses without levying a cent of additional taxes, but the people know that you cannot get something for nothing and voted against his project last fall.

These are questions every fair minded man should consider before casting his ballot to-day. The reasons that prevailed against the election of Mr. Beal last fall are even more effective this spring. Now as then he is a bolter against the orderly action of the party. He says that his only objection is to the ward primary system, but the fact that he has bolting ward tickets placed on the ballot shows the utter insincerity of this pretension. It is for the people to determine whether a voluntary bolter, a man who is seeking to disrupt the Republican party shall be successful at the polls. He can and will be defeated if the voters combine for the common good of the city.

Mayor Beal's Meeting.

The meeting called at City Hall Saturday night, and reported quite fully in another column, was intended as a vote maker by the Mayor, but it was not. The sort of talk he made on that occasion did not particularly please his own followers, who prefer the more radical kind of talk made at the Beal caucus, while at the same time it was not of a character to catch any intelligent voter who went to the meeting with a desire to hear the municipal questions discussed. The fact was the Mayor discovered early that he was not going to have an easy time if he attempted to repeat his previous performance. There were a good many of our leading business men scattered through the audience prepared to take part in the discussion. Representative Stetson, who was scheduled in connection with the ward primary system, claimed recognition and at once turned the tables upon the Mayor by a clear statement in which he convicted him of treachery. This experience was accepted by Mr. Beal as a danger signal and he at once swung off into some venom, dragging himself in a direction the Republicans have not thought of taking. [illegible]

To the Voters of Ward Five:

Shall the majority of a caucus rule? A communication has recently been circulated by Messrs. Cummings, Canney, Haskell and Patterson, the candidates on the bolting ticket, seeking to excuse their course on the ground that Mr. Cummings failing to secure the nomination in "accordance with the time-honored custom" is therefore justified in bolting the orderly and regular action of the Republican caucus. Even if this excuse was to be accepted in the case of Mr. Cummings there is no possible vindication for the course taken by the other candidates on his ticket.

A considerable portion of the circular is used in the endeavor to show that Mr. Cummings is not a thick and thin supporter of Mayor Beal. This is a doubtful compliment to the Mayor, who, however, will doubtless feel consoled by the fact that Mr. Cummings is willing to aid his candidacy by the use of his name on the bolting ticket and with his earnest support.

Now is this the first time that the people of Ward Five have failed to advance or re-nominate a candidate? Mr. Charles E. Getchell served two terms in the Common Council, was its President and was a candidate for promotion under "the time-honored custom," but Mr. Francis Garland secured the nomination. Did Mr. Getchell bolt the action of the caucus? On the contrary the "straight ticket" was elected without any opposition within the ranks of the Republican party. Mr. Frank D. Pullen was also refused a promotion to the upper board after serving three years in the lower board, but he did not feel called upon to bolt the regular action of the party.

Mr. Charles York served in the lower board and one year in the upper board and was refused a re-nomination under "the time-honored custom," Mr. Canney at that time being the one man chiefly engaged in working up the opposition to him, but Mr. York did not organize a bolting movement. He accepted the result of the caucus and the ticket nominated was elected.

In 1893 it was proposed to nominate Mr. George S. Hall as one of the Councilmen, many of the Republicans of the ward being anxious for him to stand for that position. Mr. Canney called upon Mr. Hall and asked him if in case he was elected he would support the probable Mayor, Mr. Beal. Mr. Hall replied that if elected he should support the Republican Mayor in all measures which he regarded for the interest of Bangor and in accordance with his oath of office, but that he should not pledge himself to support any man in all measures he might propose, irrespective of their character. Mr. Canney then said we shall have to take somebody else; things are different in politics. This is the same Mr. Canney who is to-day appealing for the suffrages of the voters of the ward on a bolting ticket.

The circular issued by the bolting candidates says:

"But because Mr. Cummings in doing his duty required by his oath of office, as he saw it, sometimes found himself in accord with the Mayor's ideas, notably in his position on the question of improvements at the Water Works supported by what might be termed a fairly representative petition of taxpayers, he was marked for execution, and a candidate was brought forward who had lived in the ward some over a year's time, and about whom, judging from his past record, this much can safely be said, that if elected, he would take his seat filled with the lofty idea that he must oppose everything from A. to Z., good or bad, proposed by the next Mayor (Mr. Beal) without regard to any merits in the case."

The best answer to the improvements to the Water Works is to be found in the vote of the people of this ward in the election last fall, when this question was brought directly before the voters, at which time the majority against the project advanced by the Mayor was 163. So far as Mr. Vickery is concerned he has been a resident of Bangor for over thirty years, and a voter in Ward Five for four years, instead of a year as is put forth by these bolting candidates for the purpose of prejudicing the voters. Mr. Vickery has also served in the City Government four years and is perfectly willing to let his record speak for itself. The writers of the circular give their whole case away in their reference to Mr. Beal as "the next Mayor." This shows the animus of the movement which is really aimed at the head of the ticket and in the interest of the bolting candidacy of Mayor Beal.

It will be seen from these facts that there was nothing exceptional in the action of the recent caucus. It was regular and the decree registered was the untrammelled decision of the Republican voters. The check list was used and no question has been raised concerning the fairness or legality of the caucus at which we received the nomination as the regular candidates on the Republican ticket. There is no possible excuse for the course taken by the bolting candidates who participated in that caucus and who are bound by its action in accordance with the very doctrine they preach in their circular.

We therefore ask for the united support of the Republicans of the ward as the regular nominees of the Republican party, pledging our good faith to labor individually and collectively for the best interests of the city as members of the City Government, if elected, without fear or favor.

GEORGE W. VICKERY.
FRANK H. TUPPER.
LeBARON C. WITHAM.
CHARLES F. BANKS.

the Mayor is a bolter, is so perfectly clear by the very make-up of the official ballot, to say nothing of the circumstances involved, that no amount of such argument as that of Saturday night could possibly have any weight.

Reborting to Forgery.

It would seem that Mayor Beal considers his chances of election to-day very slim and as a consequence is desperate. Last night the streets of the city were flooded with a circular signed by the Good Government Club from which we make the following extract:

Another thing we want is lower taxes; that can be obtained by a reduction in the salaries of the men that work for the city; from 25 to 50 cents a day will make a light difference. This can never be obtained under the administration of the present mayor.

Another evil in contemplation is that Mayor Beal refuses to renew the B. & P. railroad bonds, and in so doing, it reduces the bondholders' income to such an extent that they anticipate being lowered to the grade of a common laborer.

Comment is unnecessary. The source of the circular is apparent. The only wonder is that the Mayor is willing to hang out such a signal of distress, or allow his supporters to, as a forged circular and such a circular, too.

Harper's Weekly

With the end of 1896 Harper's Weekly will have lived forty years. In that time it has participated with all the zeal and power at its command in the great political events of the most momentous and important period in the history of the country, and it has spread before its readers the accomplishments of science, arts, and letters for the instruction of the human mind and the amelioration of human conditions and of manners.

What the Weekly has been in its spirit and purpose, as these have been manifested principally in its editorial pages, it will continue to be. It is impossible to announce with precision all what the Weekly will contain during the year 1897. It were as easy to announce what is about to happen in the world, what triumphs for good government are to be won, what advances of the people are to be made, what is to be the outcome of the continuous struggle between the spirits of war and peace, what is to happen in the Far East, what is to be the state of Europe twelve months hence, what new marvels of science are to be revealed, or what are to be the achievements of arts and letters. But the Weekly is to be a pictorial record of all this.

DEAD AT HIS DESK.

What is the story the morning newspapers tell of the middle-aged business man. Too fat for his age. Too little care for much money cares. Too much rush and strain, and too little time to eat, to waistband tell. Too little time to eat, to digest the food, to rest tired body and clear jaded brain. Not enough time to be sick in a whole of health and strength of office in a whole of health and strength of the happiness and a long and useful life. A big business collapses left to ruin. A big widow and orphans left to mourn. A big name that under the directing knife of the executor falls all to pieces. 'Tis the story of hundreds of business men in life reputed (and actually) successful. It is a story that is unnecessary—need not be.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery if taken in time, faithfully will keep a man or woman in good health. It goes to the roots of things, it keeps up the springs of life and gives them vigour to the music of good health. It makes the appetite keen, the digestion good, the blood pure, and the nerves steady. When ill-health is an impossibility, it is a pleasure. Thousands say so, and work is a pleasure. "Your Golden Medical Discovery has been a great help to me in my family," writes Mrs Ira S. Wright, of Sycamore, Bartholomew Co., Ind., "my wife's health was broken down, the water was all gone, had leucorrhœa, and was very nervous. I got a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and did him so much good that I got another and then a third, and the third cured him."

Nothing in the world so many times pays for itself in the owner as a good medical book. The new best one is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Newyfor cloth, 1000 pages, 680 illustrations, paper-covered, sent for 21 one-cent stamps (mailing only), to cover cost of the course of mailing, Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y. For 31 stamps you may obtain the book in cloth, beautifully stamped.

REPUBLICANS, ATTENTION!

Let the Full Vote Be Brought Out Today.

The municipal election for the choice of mayor, aldermen and ward officers for the ensuing year occurs in Brewer to-day and every Republican in the city should go to the polls and vote the straight Republican ticket for Mayor Merrill and the nominees of the Republican ward caucuses and give them a rousing majority. The polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and between those hours let every Republican do his duty and cast his vote.

Alderman Charles W. Curtis has been confined to the house for a few days by an attack of the grip.

The city council will meet this evening at 7.30 o'clock to canvass the returns from the municipal election today.

The monthly missionary concert was held at the First Congregational church last evening and was of the usual interesting nature.

Mr. Arthur K. Robinson, of Presque Isle, who has been visiting friends in the city for a few days, returns home on the train today.

Owners of the various small steamers and yachts hauled up along the Brewer shore in winter quarters are now overhauling them in readiness for launching after the ice leaves the river.

The board of registration was in session Saturday, completing the copying of the voting lists. It will be in session to-day at City Hall for the purpose of correcting clerical errors in the lists only.

A special train for the Brewer daughters of Rebekah who are to visit Riverview Lodge at Bucksport this evening will leave the Brewer depot at 6.30 p.m. A full participation in the visit on the part of the Brewer members is desired and a very pleasant occasion is expected. Tickets may be procured at the depot.

Bernice, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Ancotte, had a narrow escape from a serious injury, if not death, Friday afternoon. She was running behind a sleigh when she was struck and knocked down by another one that was passing and a portion of her clothing was caught by the runner, so that she was dragged several feet before the horse could be stopped. She was, however, very little injured, a few bruises and cuts being all the harm she received, but it was remarkable that the result was not more serious.

The Brunswick Telegraph protests against the statement made at the recent meeting of the Sons of the Revolution in Portland, that only one Maine man, Gen. William Whipple, signed the Declaration of Independence. Matthew Thornton, a signer from New Hampshire, was born in Brunswick, Maine, at the head of Maquoit Bay, where his father resided. The house was located on the Samuel Dunning farm, near the shore, where the old cellar is still to be seen. The house was burned by the Indians during the Indian war and Thornton and his family left the place and settled in New Hampshire.

Hancock.

Superintendent Grant, of the telephone company, reports several improvements in the service to be made in Ellsworth. A copper circuit will be run from Ellsworth to South Penobscot, where it will connect with the Castine line. Another metallic circuit will be run from Ellsworth to Blue Hill, and the ground line between Ellsworth and Mt. Desert Ferry will be replaced by a metallic circuit.

Messrs. Knowlton and Stratton, of the Ellsworth board of trade committee on shoe factory, who, together with Mr. Tribon, were in Boston last week, brought but few crumbs of comfort to Ellsworth people, who hoped soon to see a third shoe factory established there. The gentlemen visited several shoe manufacturers and capitalists in and about Boston, but could find none who was willing, in the present depressed condition of the shoe business, to make change of location or invest capital in new business. The only encouragement received was that if the shoe business should improve, as was hoped and expected, the manufacturers and capitalists would be pleased to talk with Ellsworth. In the meantime nothing further will be done in the matter in Ellsworth, and the people will keep a hopeful eye on the shoe market.

Kennebec.

Joseph Hunnt, of Waterville, died at his home on Bridge Square, Thursday morning from an attack of pneumonia. His age was about 35 years and he leaves a widow and four children. Mr. Hunnt has long been known as the largest man anywhere in that section, having within a year weighed 375 pounds although standing but 5 feet, 10 inches.

York.

A Saco man, Winslow Moore, fell from a building at Old Orchard 37 years ago and broke his back. The doctors said there was nothing for Mr. Moore to do but to die; but he didn't die, and furthermore has supported himself for years without assistance. He is unable to leave his chair, of course, and has suffered much trouble from bedsores, which was shattered at the same time his back was broken, his knee-pan also being fractured, but he has made carloads of shoes since 1862 and is still pegging away.

When the stomach and bowels are wrong, what seems a mere trifle, blocks the whole system. Every part of the body feels the effects of a little constipation. The head aches, the mouth tastes bad; the stomach is distressed, the liver is congested and torpid; you feel sluggish and miserable and downhearted; the energies are completely paralyzed—all for want of a little help to regulate the stomach and bowels. What you want is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They will make you regular and you keep so; they act in a comfortable, natural way; not violently, but surely. They give the intestines power to move naturally; and also tone the stomach and liver. You don't become a slave to their use, they cure you so you stay cured. If a druggist makes more money on some violent purging pill he may try to sell it to you. Don't let him.

CABLE LETTER.

Some Gossip Regarding the Cretan Trouble.

Approval of President McKinley's Rule excited to International Bimetallism.

London, March 6.—(Special cable letter.)—There still does not seem to be complete accord among the powers, especially in the case of Great Britain, as to when the final steps will be taken to force Greece into complying with the demands that have been made upon her by what is called "United Europe." The office as foreign affairs is concerned, so to speak infallible British minister, seems to be in doubt as to the outcome of his vigorous policy, which has called forth heartfelt condemnation by many English newspapers and it is said that he will propose to the other powers that before blockading the coast of Greece that country be given an extension of time in which to consider her response to the collective note demanding her withdrawal from Crete. Indecision is generally a sign of weakness and it is so believed to be in this case.

It is thought that Greece does not need any further time to consider what reply shall be made to the powers. Small and weak as she is, it is judged from the dispatches from Athens that she is thoroughly determined to maintain her present attitude and defy the powers to do their worst. In the meantime the admirals commanding the foreign fleets off Crete have been ordered to report a plan for the blockade of the Greek coasts and this in face of the menacing position evidenced by the mobilization of the Greek army and the report that a squadron has started for the coast of Macedonia.

A representative of the United Associated Presses was told at the foreign office yesterday that the officials there still had confidence that there would be no armed collision between Greece and the powers; but if the statements attributed to the Greek prime minister, M. Delyannis, are true, it is evident that the foreign officials are viewing the situation with an optimism that is not warranted by the situation.

The statement said to have been made by M. Delyannis, that Greece would prefer to disappear from the map of Europe rather than draw back from the position she has taken, does not lead unprejudiced observers to pin their faith strongly to the opinions of foreign office officials who blindly follow the lead of their chief, and who, before this, have seen diplomatic victory in circumstances which have impressed outsiders with a strong sense of defeat.

Though the current of British sentiment flows strongly in favor of Greece in the Cretan imbroglio, it is apparently not strong enough to direct the policy of Lord Salisbury. He may pretend to bow to the popular will, but really he is taking his own course, acting on the dictum of Lord Beaconsfield "that diplomacy must be guided by statesmen and not by the clatter of responsible fools."

It was thought that the Liberals would bitterly assail the government for its action in support of the "Caspenkale Turk," but popular expectation was disappointed by the mild platitudes of Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the Liberal leader, when he moved the adjournment of the house of commons in order to discuss the question. Following the idea that the government's foreign policy, right or wrong, should have the support of the country, some of the Liberal papers are discovering that something can be said of diplomatic action which, though contrary to general sentiment is in official opinion keeping Europe out of a war, in opinion, which it is feared may shortly receive a sudden shock.

The Gladstone, Labouchere and general Liberal contention, that Crete ought to be united with Greece has led to some public enlightenment on the exact justice of the Greek claims, the position of King George toward certain of the powers and what might be the results of union upon Crete.

What There May be Behind This.

It has transpired that King George, since his settlement on the throne, has been drawing annually from England, France and Russia a pension of 22,000 pounds, each power giving him 7,000 pounds per annum, with the understanding that such sum shall continue during the good behavior of himself and subjects. There are those who look upon the Greco-Cretan trouble as a prearranged scheme to save the king and his dynasty from a revolution, which would embarrass the king and guarantees.

Anent the Greek claim, racial and religious, there are now voices heard protesting that the modern Greek is the merest mongrel, making fraudulent use of tradition, a most indifferent Christian, and ever wanting Crete for purposes of robbery. It certainly can be affirmed with accuracy that the people of the Ionian Islands, ceded to Greece through Mr. Gladstone, regret the change from property and rule under Britain to diminished trade and heavy imports under Greece. A letter issued by the Geographical Commercial Society of Paris from a Syra correspondent, declares that the Cretans distrust Greece and want autonomy.

Under the Turks the Cretan Christian has been exempt from military service, paid with much irregularity their imposts, and have long had a quasi independence. Annexed to Greece they would be liable to military duty, be burdened with taxation, and a mob of Greek functionaries to rule over them, and collect the taxes. This is, of course, ex parte evidence, and it does not in any way agree with the statements of the leaders of the Cretan insurgents, who declare that they will fight to the death to free themselves from every semblance of Turkish rule, and who protest that they desire annexation to Greece.

Probably Lord Salisbury and other European diplomats care little for the cry of Crete for the Cretans. But it is obvious that anthonoy, similar to that of the Island of Samos, would command itself to statesmen. Samos has a purely Christian population and so differs from Crete, where about one-fourth of the people are Moslems. Samos, be it noted, though entirely Greek, has refused to become part of Greece, preferring autonomy with an annual tribute of 300,000 piastres to the sulton, to being ruled by Christians of the same race.

Another British Movement in Africa.

The appointment of the British mission to Abyssinia, now about to start for Zeilah, was announced in January that its objects were mentioned as aimed at counteracting those of the French mission under M. Lagarde. The latter mission has the start of the English by four months. Before the English envoy, Mr. Rennell Rodd, can meet the Emperor Menelik, Mr. Lagarde, who has already concluded commercial convention will have obtained a political treaty with the negus which was the main design of France. Mr. Rodd's instructions are directed to claiming from Menelik recognition of British and Egyptian territorial rights throughout the regions of the White Nile, including Kordofan and Der Bramman. A commercial convention and cooperation against the Dervishes will probably also be part of the British envoys negotiations.

Sons Feted Prisoners.

Mr. Oscar Wilde, who will be liberated next month, will settle in Passy, France, and resume literary work under an assumed name. The managing editor of an important Paris paper, who was and remains an admirer of Wilde's literary work, is ready to accept prose or poetry from him.

Lady Scott, who was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment for libelling her son-in-law, Earl Russell, has again been examined by a medical specialist appointed by the regular physician of Holloway prison. The report pronounces her to be suffering so much from confinement as permanently to affect her health. Her early release is expected.

The home secretary cannot couple release with a demand that Lady Scott shall cease to attack Earl Russell. Her near relatives have tried to get her to give some pledge in this direction but it is said that they find her difficult to persuade.

Ambassador Bayard has returned from his visit to the queen at Windsor Castle. He denies a report that has been circulated that he received a present from her majesty.

British Bimetallists Pleased With McKinley.

Mr. Menel, secretary of the bimetallic league has informed a representative of the United Associated Presses that British bimetallists are greatly pleased with President McKinley's reference in his inaugural address to the question of international bimetallism and his statement that it would be his constant endeavor to secure it by cooperation with the other great commercial powers of the world. The British bimetallists will do all they can to induce the government to cooperate with him.

The demeanor of the Prince of Wales toward Mr. Rhodes during and in the interval between the latter's examination before the south African commission, has been that of a friend and admirer. The prince is evidently most keen with regard to the Jameson raid. The prince is expected to be present when the report of the commission is presented to the house of commons.

New York, March 6. The shirt makers' union last night decided to strike for an increase of 15 per cent. in wages. Individual strikes will be declared in certain shops and they will bring out about 2,000 men and girls.

Shut Down for a Week.

Amesbury, Mass., March 6. Notices have been posted in all the mills of the Hamilton corporation that the mills will shut down all next week but will resume the week after. This is in accordance with the plan for curtailment at Fall River. The shut down will cause about 5,000 employes to be idle.

Boston, March 6. Of the indictment reported by the Suffolk county grand jury this forenoon the principal one was that Lojo E. Mullins, aged 17, for attempting to burn the house of Clara R. Stahl on Tremont street, at the South end. She pleaded not guilty and her case will probably be tried this month.

The Grip Caused Suicide.

Taunton, Mass., March 6. A man's garment on the bank of Mill river yesterday led to a search and the body of James Robinson was recovered this morning. He was 38 years of age and leaves a widow. The grip had unbalanced his mind.

Voted Against Admission of Women.

Baltimore, March 6. The Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal church voted yesterday 100 to 65 against the admission of women to the general conference. The proposition to give laymen equal representation with the clergy was also defeated 98 to 64. In an address to a class of young ministers Bishop Newman expresses himself in earnest terms against the use of alcohol in medicine or otherwise. "If I had come to a time," he said, "when the Lord had nothing to save my life except alcohol, I would think it were time for me to die." The bishop also paid his respects to the higher criticisms and higher critics who doubt that Moses was the author of the Pentateuch.

Ex-Empress to Visit Mexico.

Mexico, March 6. The Republic publishes a report on the authority of an ex-diplomat that the mission of the Austrian nobleman, Prince Reverdhiller here is to secure the government's permission for ex-Empress Carlotta to visit Mexico. It is said that her mind is improving and that she wishes to revisit the scene of the tragic death of her husband, Maximilian. The permission will be granted by the Mexican government, and every attention will be paid her. Her physicians recommend the visit.

SITUATION WARLIKE.

Greece Mustering Her Forces on All Sides.

Other Matters of Interest from Foreign Shores.

Athens, March 6.—The feverish activity which has characterized the movement of the military and naval authorities here for several days past continues unabated. Preparations to despatch troops and munitions of war to Thessaly are being hurried forward with all possible haste. The Greek barbette ships Spezia and Tinira which sailed from the Piræus a day or two ago, under sealed orders, together with the cruiser Navarchos, the corvettes, Admiral Miaulis and Basilissa, Georgios and the gunboats Aisa and Pandos will form a squadron which has been ordered to cruise in the Sporades. Another squadron composed of eight gunboats will cruise in the gulf of Arta.

Reserves Called.

New York, March 6.—The following cablegram was received by D. N. Bothasl, the Greek consul-general in New York today from M. Skouses, the minister of foreign affairs: "Greece has called in the reserves of the classes of 1866, 1867, 1868, 1869, 1870, 1871, 1872 and 1873, ordering them to join their respective regiments at once."

The consul is instructed to give immediate information to all of the consuls of Greece in the United States, and expects them to do their duty. All of the Greek citizens of this and other cities will be notified of this order today. There are 20,000 Greeks in this country of whom about one-fourth are subject to conscription. Failure to obey the mandate carries punishment of two years' imprisonment and a fine.

Report the Situation is Improving.

London, March 6.—The correspondent of the Chronicle in Athens telegraphed at midnight last night that there is reason to believe that the situation is improving, adding that more than one power has intimated in an official way that if Greece is willing to meet the powers half way, it is still possible for her to escape from a difficult situation in an amicable way.

The correspondent further says it is believed Greece is willing to consent to a temporary Turkish suzerainty over Crete on condition that the powers will permit the Cretans after the restoration of order to decide their status, by plebiscite and, in case Greece is asked to appoint a Greek governor over the island for the present. Under such an arrangement it is thought Greece might consent to withdraw her army and fleet from Crete upon the assurance that there would be no general massacre there.

Further, the despatch to the Chronicle says, Germany has stood in the way of a settlement of the trouble by rejecting proposals which virtually made to Greece by three European powers and which Greece would have accepted "unless other leadership of these European concert is substituted for that of Germany."

Madrid Comments.

A despatch from Madrid to the Central News says that President McKinley's inaugural address has not caused much of an impression in Spain. The ministerial newspapers in their comments mistrust the reserve of the new President and public opinion is very suspicious in view of McKinley's antecedents and the attitude which Secretary Sherman recently manifested in the United States Senate.

To Head Off Carlist Movement.

Madrid, March 6.—The government has decided to hold the coming military manœuvres in the province of Catalonia in view of the prevailing suspicion that a Carlist movement is contemplated in that part of Spain.

State of Siege.

A despatch from Montevideo, Uruguay, says that a revolution has broken out in the interior of the republic. A state of siege still prevails at Montevideo.

Relations Strained.

The St. James Gazette says it is rumored among persons within the ministerial circle that Mr. Chamberlain, colonial secretary, has sent an emphatic intimation to President Kruger of the South African republic that "the aliens act which is in operation in the Transvaal is in contravention of the provisions of the London convention of 1884 and must be withdrawn."

The Manchester Guardian says that the relations between Great Britain and the government of the Transvaal are very much strained, and that Mr. Chamberlain is anxious that the inevitable struggle between the two shall come as quickly as possible.

According to the Guardian, Gen. Lord Wolseley, commander-in-chief of the British army, is said to have estimated that 20,000 British troops would be sufficient to conquer the Boers. In the meantime, it is understood that President Kruger, of the Transvaal republic is unmoved and is prepared to resist all interference on the part of England at all costs.

The Ring Mountains of the Moon.

The moon is really and truly a great planet of mountains, its whole visible surface being dotted with elevations of curious shape and of extraordinary height. We say "its whole visible surface" and hasten to explain that we make this statement simply because the eye of man has never seen, but one side of the surface of the moon. What we, however, can see convinces us that the little planet is extremely mountainous, for on the "land" exposed to our view there are no less than 30,000 peaks, varying in height from 2,000 feet to 4 miles. When we consider the fact that this lunarian world is only one thirty-second part as large as the earth we can easily see why it deserves the title of the "planet of great mountains." There is a peculiar thing about these 30,000 moon peaks. Each and every one of them has a ringlike form, the open end of the conical point being of greater or lesser diameter, according to the height of the mountain. In a low grade telescope these peaks resemble true volcanoes, but when viewed through a high grade glass it is seen that the depression in the center of the queer "ring mountain" is often so great as to be below the general level of the surrounding country. The depth of these depressions is calculated in a curious manner—by figuring on the relative shadows they cast when the sun is shining full upon them. The diameter of these "ring mountains" varies greatly, some of the larger ones being 60, 100 or even 150 miles, while the smaller look like pot holes when viewed through a good telescope.—St. Louis Republic.

A Quaint Bird Legend.

The Medical Press, in a recent reference to a work on some old legends in connection with drugs, said: "It would be interesting to know if the bird which the author calls 'nater' is known to modern ornithologists. Speaking of it, he remarks that its scent is said to be so strong that fishes are drawn by it as he is flying over the river, and so taken up by him, having one leg like a hawk, the other like a duck." It is not difficult, however, to identify the bird in question. It is the osprey (Pandion haliætus), which, although not today classified under the genus astur, is related to it. In the Rev. C. Swainson's "Folklore of British Birds" there is a reference to it from Shakespeare, "Coriolanus," act 4, scene 3:

Aufidius, loq:—
"As the osprey, to the fish
Who takes it
By sovereignty of nature."

And in Peele's play, called "The Battle of Alcazar" (1594), act 2, scene 1:

I will provide thee of a princely osprey,
That, as she flieth over fat in pools,
The fish shall turn their glistering bellies up,
And thou shalt take thy liberal choice of all.

There is a young lady on Chestnut street, Camden, who is remarkably well provided for in the way of grandparents. She is Miss Augusta, the five months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Macey, and has two great-grandparents, and four grandparents.

The Camden band was reorganized last Monday evening with the following officers: Business manager, F. H. Thomas; leader, Clinton Thomas; secretary, George W. Varney; treasurer, G. B. Tibbetts. A new suite of rooms has been secured and the band will soon be in condition for engagements.

A little girl was recently sent to buy some goods at a store and was given a 50 cent piece to pay for the same. She returned to her mother without the goods she had been sent for. "It cost only 38 cents, mamma, and you gave me too much, so I have come back to get the right sum to pay for it." Her mother told her to return to the store with the 50 cent piece and to keep what was given back to her. She now better understands making change.

Kennebec Journal: The sub committee of the legislative judiciary and legal affairs committee, has prepared a first draft of the long awaited insolvency law and will present it to the full committee the first of the week. They will give it a thorough overhauling and report it to the House the last of the week. No attempt will be made to repeal the entire act of insolvency laws of the State, as was for a time suggested, but the present laws will be changed in the interest of the creditor class and the laws made more stringent, so that it will not be so easy to get into insolvency.

The Century
IN 1897.
ALL NEW FEATURES.

The Century will continue to be in every respect the leading American magazine. Its table of contents including each month the best in literature and art. The present interest in American history makes especially timely a Great Novel of the American Revolution, the leading serial feature for 1897, and the masterpiece of its author, Dr. S. Weir Mitchell. The story, "Hugh Wynne, Free Quaker," purports to be the autobiography of its hero, an officer on Washington's staff. Social life in Philadelphia at the time of the Revolution is most interestingly depicted, and the characters include Washington, Franklin, Lafayette, and others well known in history. It is safe to say that the readers of the great romance will obtain from its clever idea of the people who were foremost in Revolutionary days, a better conception of the times, than can be had from any other single source. The work is not only historically accurate, but is a most interesting story of love and war. The first chapters are in the November number. Howard Pyle will illustrate it.

Campaigning With Grant, by General Horace Porter, is the title of a series of papers which has been in preparation for many years. General Porter was an aide on General Grant's staff and a close friend of his chief, and the story which he tells through his work is the work of the present articles, which are striking pen-pictures of campaign life and incidents. They will be fully illustrated. The first one is in the November Century.

A new novel by Marion Crawford, author of "Mr. Isaacs," "Dr. Claudius," "Zoroaster," "Cigarette," etc., entitled "A Roman of Yesterday," a story of modern life in Europe, with American characters, begins in November. The first of a series of Cigar Savings, made by the famous wood-engraver, T. Cole, of the old Engleman school, is in this issue. New features will be announced from time to time.

Saturday afternoon while Mr. Thomas McCann, of Union street, was driving his four-year-old colt out of the stable yard of the Park House, on May street the sleigh was overturned by a heap of snow and Mr. McCann was thrown out, but was uninjured. The horse ran across the Bangor House park and Union street to Short street, where the sleigh collided with a telegraph pole and was smashed. The animal ran to Pickering square, where he was captured and later returned to his owner.

A resident whose sympathy for cats, especially those who appear to be suffering, is well known, got himself into somewhat of a predicament on a recent cold day. He found a poor animal prying and shivering before a house. The cat must belong in there, he thought. So he went to the door, the cat following, and after pulling the knob quickly retired, leaving the cat waiting patiently to be let in. "That's pretty clever," he said to himself. He glanced back as he rounded the corner, to see the cat making off as fast as his legs could carry him. If on the door opened and the good lady of the house looked this way and then that finally to find the man starting at her from down the street. Apologies were in order. The cat finally came back, he afterwards learned.

The Cherryfield correspondent of the Machias Union believes in speaking "right out in meeting" occasionally and it is interesting to hear him. The other day he wrote: "Grumters and fault finders who are always howling about Washington county being made of the cast-off material that was left over when the rest of the world was created are reminded of the fact that she leads the country in an important agricultural product. B. F. Willey, a Cherryfield farmer, in the possession of a diploma and medal from the Columbian Exposition for the best Defiance wheat and the largest yield per acre. Those who have left the old county in the vain pursuit of wealth are advised to quit chasing jack-o-lanterns and to return, prodigal like, to the soil of their birth, which still remains the paradise of baked beans, pumpkin pies and molasses doughnuts and where even the prayermeetings wind up with a luncheon."

It is reported that the Adjutant General of the State is preparing an accurate statement of the strength of the national guard in this State for the use of the Federal War Department. There orders have been transported to the colonels of the regiments, who have been in communication with the company commanders in the various towns of Maine where commands are organized. Captains of companies have been, it is understood, directed to put every piece of equipment into perfect condition for use at any date, to have all pieces with the armories and to prepare their companies for duty to such a degree as is possible. Maine has now in service 24 companies of infantry, 1,600 strong; they are formed into two regiments, under the command of Col. George A. Philbrook of the Second, and of Col. Lucius B. Kendall, of the First. Col. Kendall is the senior officer. The guard has attained a high position in marksmanship and in field efficiency.

Brace Up.

You are suffering. You do not know what is the matter with you. You are all run down, nervous, weak and broken in health. Dr. Greene, 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass., the eminent and distinguished specialist, whose marvelous cures have astonished the world, has in his laboratories discovered medicines that are almost infallible in all cases of chronic and nervous affections and what are called incurable diseases. You can consult Dr. Greene at his office free, personally or by letter. In order to accomplish the most good to the greatest number of sufferers he has established the following rule: For a full medical advice, including a chemical analysis of the secretions, with the full directions for the treatment, the price is $5. Those who are unable to pay the fee may consult the doctor by letter. Many of the most wonderful cures have been made by the use of his celebrated medicines sent by mail or express all over the United States. In order to accommodate those who are unable to pay the full fee for a medical opinion, Dr. Greene has decided to give a free consultation for a short time only. Those who are in need of medical advice should not let this opportunity pass. Dr. Greene's success in curing the most difficult cases of nervous and chronic diseases has been phenomenal. Many of the most eminent men in the country have been his patients. Dr. Greene's success is due to the fact that he devotes his entire attention to the treatment of these diseases, and has a right to claim the highest skill in his specialties. Many cases are perplexing in the extreme, and require the best medical skill that can be obtained
